Ike Okays Rapid Air Delivery of Arms into Middle Eastern Area

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States today rushed plans to speed weapon deliveries to the Middle East as a bulwark against possible Syrian aggression with Soviet arms.

Officials said President Eisenhower gave a green light for rapid air delivery of "certain military items" to Jordan and faster delivery of weapons to Saudi Arabia, Iraq and perhaps other Middle Eastern countries.

Turkey, one of Syria's neighbors, is scheduled to receive initial delivery soon on an undisclosed number of American F100 Supersabre jet fighters.

Arms Question Raised

The new American interest in increasing arms shipments to Arab states immediately raised the question of whether more arms would be shipped to Israel. Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban was expected to put the question before U.S. officials at a scheduled meeting next week.

Additional decisive steps to counter Moscow's stepped-up penetration of Syria may follow an extraordinary meeting at the White House Saturday between the President, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Loy W. Henderson. Henderson just returned from a Middle Eastern fact-finding tour.

The President will fly to Washington from his vacation retreat at Newport, R.I., for the conference.

To Consider Action

The president and his top diplomatic advisers will consider possible American action on the Middle East:

—In the United Nations where Russia's penetration of Syria could be highlighted before the world. Dulles is going to the U.N. General Assembly meeting in New York on Sept. 17 to deliver a major foreign policy address.

—Under the Eisenhower Doctrine which provides for economic-military aid to nations resisting international Communism. If necessary, the amount of American military and economic aid to anti-Communist nations in the Middle East could be increased.

Corning Glass Board Elects Six Officers

Six officers were elected yesterday to the Corning Glass Works board of directors.

One of them, Robert W. Foster, was formerly associated with Corning's plant at Charleroi. He has been named assistant controller.

Corning president William C. Decker also announced election of these officers:

Charles D. LaFollette, financial vice-presient; Thomas Waaland, treasurer; John L. Ward, controller; Norman J. Vang, vice-president and director of industrial relations; and Richard M. Clifford, manufacturing manager of the Electrical Products Division.

Foster was plant accountant at Charleroi from 1942 to 1946.

Earlier in the week, George D. Macbeth, long associated with the glass industry in Charleroi; retired as vice-president at Corning. He was elected as an honorary vice-president and will continue to serve on the board of directors and the executive committee.

Wants Highway Secretary to Be Road Builder

ERIE Pa., (UP) — Republican State Chairman George I Bloom has urged Gov. George M. Leader to appoint a man with personal experience at building roads as his new secretary of highways.

Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler will step down from his cabinet post before Oct. 1 to become a member of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Speaking at a meeting of the Erie County Republican committee Bloom charged the administration with dragging its feet in building new roads in the state.

"The truth is we have had more promises of roads, and less road building, under the Leader administration that at any time in recent history," Bloom said. Pennsylvania, is going road hungry in the midst of the greatest highway building activity the nation has ever seen."

Delicate Brain Operation Success Despite Smoke

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UP) — A delicate brain operation was completed successfully in Allentown General Hospital Thursday night despite heavy smoke from a $30,000 fire only 50 feet away in an adjoining wing of the hospital.

Dr. R. M. Yeager, a neurosurgeon, was performing the operation on an unidentified woman patient when the fire, blamed on a discarded cigarette, broke out in a mattress storage room in the adjoining Mosser Wing. Heavy smoke from the blaze was carried through air conditioning ducts into the operating room and other sections of the hospital.

Despite the smoke and the danger the fire might spread, Dr. Yeager completed the operation calmly.

The smoke also forced hospital attendants to remove a number of patients from the second floor of the building but most of he patients were not aware of the blaze.

The fire was discovered by a hospital orderly who found the stored mattresses burning. The flames, which raged for 45 minutes before being brought under control, burned through the storage room, part of the hall outside and through the ceiling. The 55-year-old Mosser Wing was to be razed at the end of the year.

George Gettko of 420 Ontario St., Monessen, reported to police that while he was walking down 12th St. about 3:15 this morning a man identified as Mark Dawkins, 35, snatched a wrist watch off his wrist.

Dawkins was arrested this morning and placed in jail on a suspicion of highway robbery charge, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka reported.

Judge in Arkansas Studies Petition to Halt Integration

By UNITED PRESS

The United States government and the state of Arkansas faced one another today in what amounted to an armed truce in the Little Rock school integration controversy, awaiting action Saturday by a federal judge on a petition to "suspend integration temporarily."

Armed National Guardsmen continued to pace their rounds at Little Rock's Central High School, storm center for the past four days of Negro efforts to achieve compliance in the South with the Supreme Court's desegregation rulings.

Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus also kept armed guards at the gates of the executive mansion, despite President Eisenhower's wired assurance to him Thursday that federal agents did not plan to seize the governor and had not tapped telephone wires to the mansion.

It was relatively quiet at Central High School today where troops last turned back attempts by Negro students to enter classes on Wednesday. None of the Negro students appeared Thursday although 1,500 whites milled around the school for an hour and a half.

About 150 whites had gathered outside the troop lines at the school today. They remained orderly although guardsmen broke up one crowd which had gathered around two reporters who were conducting interviews.

To Hold Hearing

It was assumed they, along with all parties concerned, had adopted a "wait-and-see" attitude, after federal Judge Ronald N. Davies said he would conduct a hearing Saturday on the school board's newest petition to his court.

Virgil T. Blossom, the harried superintendent of schools, joined five school board lawyers in signing the petition which asked Davies to "suspend integration temporarily" for "the good of all pupils."

The petition said that following state interference with the board's gradual integration plan, students as well as their parents had di-

Loyal Troops Recapture Port Of Cienfuegos

HAVANA (UP) — The government announced today that loyal troops have recaptured the sugar port of Cienfuegos, scene Thursday of a 10-hour flareup of violence in Cuba's slow-motion revolt.

At latest reports, however, sporadic firing could still be heard in the city.

"Order has been reestablished at Cienfuegos," President Fulgencio Batista told newsmen Thursday night. "No detailed reports are yet available, but it is known that both sides have suffered casualties."

The acknowledgment that loyal troops had been killed or wounded—exceedingly rare in Cuban battle reports — was taken as an index of the fierceness of the fighting.

The trouble started early Thursday, when a band of about 100 rebels overran Cuba's south-coast naval headquarters in centuries-old Jagua Castle, built by early Spanish settlers to defend the port.

Police 'Checking Out' Theory of Wheeling Slaying

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—Police today were "checking out" a Wheeling car salesman's version of how gambler Nick Miller was slain.

Alvan Tavan, in a statement to city and state police Thursday, named two Steubenville, Ohio, gamblers as responsible for the murder. Wheeling Police Chief William J. Thomas said he was checking out the story "just as we have checked out all other information."

"He (Tavan) advanced a theory. There is nothing concrete," Thomas said.

Allegheny County Detective Ted Botula said Tavan had contacted him last Sunday and given the same version. Botula said it is being investigated.

Authorities here put little credence in Tavan's statement. One report indicated Tavan often called a local television station and identified himself as "the right hand man of Bill Lias," former Wheeling racketeer.

Miller's body was found Aug. 22 in the trunk of his car on a residential side street near Pittsburgh. Pathologists were unable to determine the cause of death.

Walkout of 13 Threatens the Entire Plant

A wildcat strike started yesterday by a 13-man crew in the billet mill today threatened to idle the Monessen plant of Pittsburgh Steel Co.

The strike, which the company has termed "illegal," began on the 4 to 12 p. m. shift yesterday in the 28-inch and 46-inch mills.

The walkout already has closed down the blooming mill department, idling 340 men, and threatens to halt all other operations and idle nearly 5,000 workers here.

Donald C. Duvall, vice president - industrial relations, today said the company considers the strike illegal."

He said it involves "refusal on the part of certain employes in the billet mill to accept duties as outlined by supervisors."

Ortolona Quiet

The dispute, he added, arose over work assignments in the billet mill. The 13-man crew refused to work after reporting at 4 p. m. yesterday and made demands to the company "on how they would work and how they wouldn't work," Duvall said.

Anthony Ortolona, president of Pittsburgh Steel Local 1229, United Steelworkers (AFL-CIO) refused to answer questions about the strike when interviewed this morning. All Ortolona would say was:

"I don't know what you're talking about."

Duvall said the three-year contract the company and union signed last year "strictly forbids action of this type."

"The contract provides for employes with grievances to go through proper channels to settle any grievances," he said. "These men certainly are not abiding by the contract."

He said no arrangements had been made by noon today for a meeting between union and management representatives to discuss the situation.

Can Be Serious

When Ortolona was asked about possible negotiations, he again replied,

"I don't know what you're talking about."

Carl A. Breuer, vice president-production, said the strike could have serious effects.

"The blooming mill department is out now," Breuer said, "and it is too early to tell what is going to happen to other departments that depend on the blooming mill for steel.

"This strike could lead to the

'Bonus' Nuclear Test Triggered From Balloon

ATOP ANGELS PEAK, Nev. (UP) — A "bonus baby" test shot dangling from a balloon 500 feet over Yucca Flat was triggered by the Atomic Energy Commission early today.

The detonation, code - named "Wheeler" and 17th full - scale nuclear experiment of the 1957 test series, banged sharply from its platform beneath the 67-foot diameter aerial carrier, sending rumbles off the ozonosphere to echo in the valleys and craggy mountains of the western desert. Blast - off time was 5:45 a.m. p.d.t. (8:45 e.d.t.)

The AEC, giving only sparse details, said the designed yield of the device was far below nominal. Observers estimated it was less than five kilotons, or about the equivalent of 5,000 tons of TNT.

The shot was closed for observation by newsmen at News Nob. Newsmen witnessed the blast from Angels Peak, about 55 miles from ground zero.

Despite its small size, the bright flash from 'Wheeler" was seen more than 300 air miles away in Los Angeles. Early rising residents in the gambling resort city of Las Vegas, Nev., and at Reno, Nev., also watched the shot brighten the skies.

The fireball died out within moments after the detonation. Observers said it was about the same size as "Franklin" the second shot in the series that was triggered June 2.

Leader Receives Boost to Run For Senate Seat

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader's anticipated bid for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate next year has received the support of Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler.

Butler said Thursday he would "ask Leader to run" if he were a Pennsylvania voter. Butler added, that as a national chairman, he could not ethically ask the governor to seek retiring Sen. Edward Martin's seat.

Butler said Leader's future political plans were among topics discussed during a 1½ hour conference in the governer's office but that no commitments were made.

The Democrat praised Leader as "one of the three most able young men in Pennsylvania's Democratic party." He grouped the governor with U. S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark and Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth. Dilworth reportedly is being asked to run for the governorship on a ticket with Leader.

Prosecution to Wind Up Mon City Case

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP)—The prosecution appeared ready today to wind up its case against Mrs. Lena Trappin, the 75-year-old great-grandmother the state seeks to send to prison for murder.

The defense indicated it then will demand the murder charges be dismissed for lack of evidence. The defendant's attorneys declared the evidence presented so far has been purely circumstantial, no motive was established, and Mrs Trappin, although a heavy - set woman weighing 196 pounds, was not physically able to strangle the victim.

Mrs. Trappin is charged with throttling Joseph Mancuso, 65, a Monongahela, Pa., shoemaker, with a belt in her home and leaving his body in a neighbor's yard where it was found last May 2.

Mrs. Trappin contends she knows nothing about the death of Mancuso, a long-time neighbor and friend of her late husband. The defense will decide whether she will take the witness stand to plead for acquittal after Judge Homer T. Cummins rules on the directed verdict plea.

The jury of eight women and four men began hearing evidence in the case Wednesday.

In testimony Thursday, a Monongahela patrolman disputed the elderly defendant's statement she was asleep when Mancuso was killed. Officer George Bosco testified he saw Mrs. Trappin walking around her home at 4 a.m. the day Mancuso's body was found near her house. An autopsy established the time of his death as sometime between 3 a. m. and 6 a.m.

Bosco said he was driving in a patrol car down Main Street in Monongahela and noticed a light in Mrs. Trappin's upstairs room. Flashing a light toward the house, he noticed the silhouette of a "large woman" in the window.

The state appeared to be basing its case against the woman on bloodstains and a set of buttons found in her home. The prosecution claims the blood matched Mancuso's and the buttons were torn from his shirt and underwear.

Duda Finds College Life 'Challenging'

Dr. Michael Duda, former Monessen superintendent of schools, has found life as a college president "new, interesting and challenging."

Installed as president of California State Teachers College last Oct. 16, Dr. Duda has been busy ever since adjusting to his new role.

"My family and I are pretty much settled now," Dr. Duda informed. "We live in the main building here on the college campus."

The popular educator said that his daughter, Karen, insisted on completing her senior year at Monessen High School. She commutes daily from California.

"Naturally we all miss the people of Monessen," said Dr. Duda. "My six years and one month there as superintendent of schools were most pleasant."

Dr. Duda hasn't slackened his pace any at CSTC. Just as he did in Monessen, Dr. Duda attends all student activities and all college functions.

Each noon, the CSTC president dines with seven different new students. He discusses their problems and offers suggestions.

"These dinner meetings enable me to keep in touch with the students," Dr. Duda explained. "My office is always open to them, or their parents for the purpose of going over school problems."

As president of CSTC, Dr. Duda is executive officer of the college. It is his duty to carry out the poli-

Japanese Say Many Soldiers Fired at Them

MAEBASHI, Japan (UP) — Two Japanese scrap metal pickers testified today at the trial of U. S. Army Specialist 3C William S. Girard that many Americans fired shell casings at them and "laughed and clapped their hands when we ran away."

The statements by Noburo Matsuzawa and Mon-ya Hoshino were among 30 affidavits filed by the prosecution at the second session of the trial that has created an international controversy.

They said U.S. soldiers often fired blanks, shell casings and phosphorous grenades at Japanese villagers who made their living selling used shell casings they picked up on the Camp Weir firing range north of Tokyo to sell as scrap metal.

Girard, of Ottawa, Ill., was charged with manslaughter after a shell casing fired from a grenade launcher attached to his rifle struck and killed Mrs. Naka Sakai, mother of six children.

Offers Compensation

The U.S. Army announced it offered Mrs. Sakai's bereaved husband a solatium (compensation) offer of $1,748.20, but that he turned it down.

'I do not want to discuss money matters at this time," he said.

It has been the custom in U.S.-Japan relations in the past to offer payment of a solatium to individuals or the family in the event of injury or death through the action of a member of the U.S. forces.

The second session of the internationally-observed trial opened in Maebashi District Court under the direction of Judge Yuzo Kawachi and two associate judges, who will hand down the final decision in the case.

Adjourns Session

Kawachi adjourned today's session at 3:15 a.m. e.d.t., and cancelled two outdoor sessions scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at the scene of the shooting because of bad weather. He rescheduled them for Sept. 12, 13 and 14.

When the statements all were read to the court, Kawachi called Girard to the stand.

During the reading of the documentary evidence," he asked, "did anything strike you as objectionable and would you like to ask any questions?"

"No," Girard replied and returned to his chair at the defendant's table. The defense, headed by Japanese attorney Itsuro Hayashi, also refused to question the affidavits.

Brown is the eastern regional director of the GOP Congressional Committee.

Mrs. John Knott Ambrose, political activities chairman from Beaver, said Republican women from western Pennsylvania will be represented at the conference.

Mrs. Ambrose will preside at the morning session and Mrs. B. Clair Jones, state chairman of political activities, at the afternoon discussions.

Among other speakers will be George I. Bloom, state chairman; Mrs. Ruth Glenn Powell, state vice chairman; Mrs. Meade D. Detweiler, Jr., state legislative chairman, and Mrs. Jay Cooke, state Congressional chairman.

Jay Cooke and Mrs. Russell W. Dixon, national committeeman and woman, will extend greetings, as will Mrs. William E. Martindale, state president.

Plans for women's participation in the campaigns between now and Nov. 5 will be outlined in detail.

Ancient Gypsy Rite Reenacted Near West Newton

An ancient rite of Romanian gypsies — Tomula — was reenacted earlier in the week during an encampment of tribes from all over the U. S. on Route 71, three miles east of West Newton.

At the "Tomula" a 14-year-old girl was bethrothed to a 12-year-old boy. According to gypsy custom, the bride-to-be will live in the trailer of her future husband's parents.

The children will be brought up as brother and sister for the next four years. They will then be married at a rite during which blood of the bride is mingled with blood of the husband. After the marriage, they will be given a trailer of their own.

Many district residents witnessed the colorful ceremony, which was followed by a betrothal meal and dancing.

Love Is Main Reason Girls Get Married

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Love, it seems, is the main reason girls get married before finishing high school. And impatience.

Zona H. Kelly makes this report after conducting a four-year study of in-school marriages in a Tennessee city of 20,000 population.

Most girls, she says, were wed because they were "so much in love they couldn't wait."

Others had a less romantic reason: They wanted to get out of school.

Some just wanted to get away from home, where conditions were "unpleasant."

The reaction to marriage, Mrs. Kelly reveals, ranged from "very happy" to just plain happy, with not one girl expressing regret.

And then there was this conclusion on the part of high school faculty members:

The young matrons do not have a bad influence on their classmates, but they cannot be considered an asset.

Peoples Gas Co. Given Okay to Raise Rates

The Public Utility Commission yesterday approved an immediate rate increase for the Peoples Natural Gas Co., Pittsburgh, to help offset recent boosts in the cost of gas from pipeline wholesalers.

Three other western Pennsylvania natural gas companies are also granted increases.

Peoples will boost rates for all except base use by 2½ cents per one thousand cubic feet.

The company serves 250,000 customers in 13 counties, including most of the Monessen areas.

The rate increase will amount to $1,242,000 in added revenue for Peoples.

The Public Utility Commission also okayed a $969,000 increase for Equitable Gas Co., Pittsburgh; $230,000 for North Penn Gas Co., Port Allegany; and $8,000 for S. H. Elder, Smethport.

The action followed on the heels of a $1,523,000 "stopgap" boost allowed the Manufacturers Light and Heat Co., Pittsburgh, by the PUC on Wednesday for similar reasons.

The natural gas wholesalers increased their prices to Pennsylvania utilities last July 14 by authority of the Federal Power Commission.

Equitable will boost charges 1.4 cents per one thousand cubic feet in all rate blocks. It serves 235,000 customers in several counties. North Penn, with 18,800 users in eight counties, will increase rates two cents per one thousand cubic feet for all except base use.

Elder, which furnishes service to 270 customers in McKean County, will hike all charges 2½ cents per one thousand cubic feet.

Off-key Rendition Is Winner at Pageant

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—A church choir singer who is all mixed up geographically won Thursday night's talent round at the Miss America pageant with a hilarious, off-key rendition of "My Hero" from "The Chocolate Soldier."

Gloria Ruth Rupprecht, 19, daughter of a Lutheran minister, entered the contest as Miss Indiana. But she was born in Chicago and lived in Winston-Salem, N.C. before moving with her father to St. Petersburg, Fla. two years ago.

Miss Reprecht now attends Valparaiso University in Indiana, her stepping-off point to the state contest which she won.

She conceivably was the first contestant in history of the pageant to win a talent competition by singing off key. Her three-minute act which earned her a $1,000 scholarship was that of a scared young soprano making her theatrical debut singing "My Hero."

Miss Georgia — tall Jody Elizabeth Shattuck—20, was judged the finest among 17 swim suit competitors as she swept down the 120 foot runway in a white satin creation gold threaded about the bodice.

Miss Shattuck, 5-feet, 9-inches tall and 130 pounds, blue-eyed and blonde, had 37-24-38 measurements She attended St. Lawrence University and the University of Georgia for one year each. She was born in Pittsburgh.

High Comedy Wins

Once again, it took high comedy to win the talent division. Miss Indiana had to win out over excellent performances by Miss Vermont, displaying her own paintings in an original skit with original music; Miss North Carolina's comic treatment of a news celebrity before the cameras; Miss Idaho's solo from "Die Fledermaus;" Miss Utah's violin presentation; Miss Nevada's piano solo, Miss Maryland's reading of a letter to her parents and Miss Minnesota's excerpts from "My Fair Lady."

The two winners joined Miss Missouri and Miss Arizona as preliminary winners. They won the talent and swim suit competition respectively Wednesday night.

cies established by the state Department of Public Instruction.

That alone is a full-time job, but Dr. Duda has interested himself in other aspects of college life, too.

He has thrown his full support behind the Vulcan Quarterback Club, an organization which assists needy students.

"We are currently conducting a membership campaign," Dr. Duda said. "All friends of the college are invited to join. The cost per year is $10, entitling the member to the annual athletic banquet, to all home athletic contests along with a guest and to parking privileges."

The ex-Monessen superintendent pointed out that most of the CSTC students come from families in the medium or low income bracket. He said many of them need financial assistance.

Dr. Duda is also busy planning an ambitious expansion program for the college. Already approved is an addition to the auditorium. In the planning stage is a new science-classroom building.

"Our building program is being planned over a ten year period," he explained.

The enrollment at CSTC has increased sharply in recent years. Over 1300 students have registered for the current session.

"We are operating at 127 per cent of our facilities," Dr. Duda pointed out. "This has been accomplished by adding an hour per day to our instruction period and by adding Saturday classes."

A former all-around athlete, Dr. Duda is naturally interested in the college's sports program. He has installed wrestling on an informal basis and plans to add golf as soon as possible.

The varsity sports program at CSTC is limited somewhat by the rules governing the State Teachers College Conference.

"We want good teams, but we have no intention of reducing our academic standards to achieve them," Dr. Duda stated.

The new CSTC president has also established a college public relations staff.

"We want everyone to know of our progress here at California Teachers," he explained.

vided into tense factions, some favoring the plan, others considering it "ill-advised."

Davies would not comment on why he set the hearing on the petition two days after it was presented.

In his telegram to Faubus, prompted by the governor's claim federal agents planned to "seize the head of a sovereign state," Eisenhower urged compliance with Davies federal court order to integrate Central High School.

The President, in the strongest stand he has taken on school integration, asked Faubus to "cooperate" with the U.S. District Court.

He pointedly reminded Faubus that the Arkansas National Guard, which the governor has used to defy the orders of a federal court, was "uniformed, armed and partially sustained" by the federal government.

The contract is similar to one signed with the Pittsburgh and Duquesne Brewing companies and includes a 10-cent increase retroactive to Aug. 1, 2½ cents next February, and another 10 cents next Aug. 1. It also includes improved vacations and hospitalization and an additional paid holiday.

State Trooper, Who Helped Avert Tragedy, Honored for 'Heroism'

A state trooper, who helped to avert a serious tragedy when the brakes of a tractor-trailer truck let loose on steep Route 40 near Uniontown, was honored yesterday for "extraordinary heroism."

Reu P. Silbaugh, until recently stationed at the Uniontown barracks, was presented three citations by Maj. Charles J. McRae, inspector of District 1 headquarters in Butler, during a review of Troop B at Washington.

The first citation was from the Citizen's Committee of Philadelphia; another from Col. Earl J. Henry, commissioner of the state police; and the third from Gov. George M. Leader.

The governor's citation reads:

"To Trooper Silbaugh for fortitude and extraordinary heroism distinguished by conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his own life. While on patrol duty July 31, east of Summit Mountain, Fayette County, you observed a tractor-trailer going downgrade west at an excessive rate of speed. You immediately gave chase to the vehicle and upon approaching turned off your siren and headlights and passed. At that time, the operator threw up his hands and shook his head indicating there was nothing he could do.

Jeopardized own Safety

"You preceded ahead of the vehicle, in the center of the highway, turned on your headlights and siren to indicate trouble to the traveling public as well as to the local residents.

"Passing through Hopwood at a slight upgrade, the operator of the runaway truck left the highway and was able to bring the vehicle to a stop. You jeopardized your own personal safety for that of others and prevented what could have ended in mass fatalities.

"I take pleasure in commending you on outstanding performance of duty."

Trooper Silbaugh is a native of Dilltown, near Johnstown. He also was lauded for his brave performance in the emergency by the truck driver's company in Nebraska.

The operator, Glenn Switzer, 28, Fairmont, Neb., was en route from Baltimore to Chicago with a load of sugar. He was treated for shock in the Uniontown Hospital after the incident.

entire plant being shutdown."

Duvall said the company is in the midst of an $8½ million expansion program and this strike "naturally will result in an interruption of this program.

"The strike could have serious repercussions," he added.

As of noon today, only the blooming mill had been affected. No picketing was reported.

Gets Tangled Up in Appliances

PACOIMA, Calif. (UP)—A hapless housewife has done it again. She got tangled up with household appliances for the second time within a year.

Mrs. Virginia Schoen last February got her hands caught in a non-functioning garbage disposer. She had to be rescued by the fire department.

The 34 year-old housewife got her big toe caught in a refrigerator door Wednesday. She had removed a broken handle from the door some time ago and when she went to kick the door closed with bare feet her toe jammed in the hole left by the missing handle.

It took the same fire department that came to her rescue before to get her out of the latest predicament.

We Heard It— ABOUT the VALLEY

(By The Independent News Staff)

A slick manual entitled "Welcome to Kindergarten" was distributed this week to 225 Monessen youngsters enrolled for the 1957-58 term.

One of the purposes of kindergarten, explained the manual, is to provide children with "a basic readiness for experience in spelling."

A cartoon on the final page of the manual indicates that the artists may have missed out on kindergarten. In big, bold letters a drawing of the school principal is captioned "PRINCIPLE."

Telephone callers to the Monessen City Building on Wednesday got a busy signal most of the day.

Reason: The Democratic city administration was busy calling prospective voters to make certain they registered for the Nov. 5 general election.

Apparently the telephone efforts paid off. A total of 196 Democrats registered; just eight Republicans.

When classroom furniture failed to arrive in time for the start of the current term at St. Sebastian parochial school in Belle Vernon this week, the ingenious nuns had to improvise.

They solved the problem by seating the pupils on folding chairs around card tables.

"It was fun even if Sister didn't let us play cards," remarked one third grader.

There is some confusion these days over mail arriving at the home of Dr. K. Fife Sterrett, former Monessen High principal who is now a professor of education at California State Teachers College.

His son, who will depart next month for a year of graduate studies in The Netherlands, is named Dr. Kay Fife Sterrett.

"The names sound alike, but there's a difference," pointed out the elder Dr. Sterrett. "My first name is actually Karl, but I've always used merely the initial K."

That should straighten things out for the postman.

In a secluded section of Rostraver Twp., there's a mink farm with more than 1,000 of the precious fur-bearing animals on the premises.

A Daily Independent reporter asked the mink farmer for permission to do a picture story on the unusual enterprise. The farmer declined, politely but firmly.

"I don't want too many people knowing about my operation," he explained with a prosperous air.

A Belle Vernon church was about to discard a group of old pews the other day when someone suggested a new use.

Volunteer workers are busy now converting the pews into bingo tables!

What else?

Thousands of pictures of the world's leading figures are filed away here at The Daily Independent.

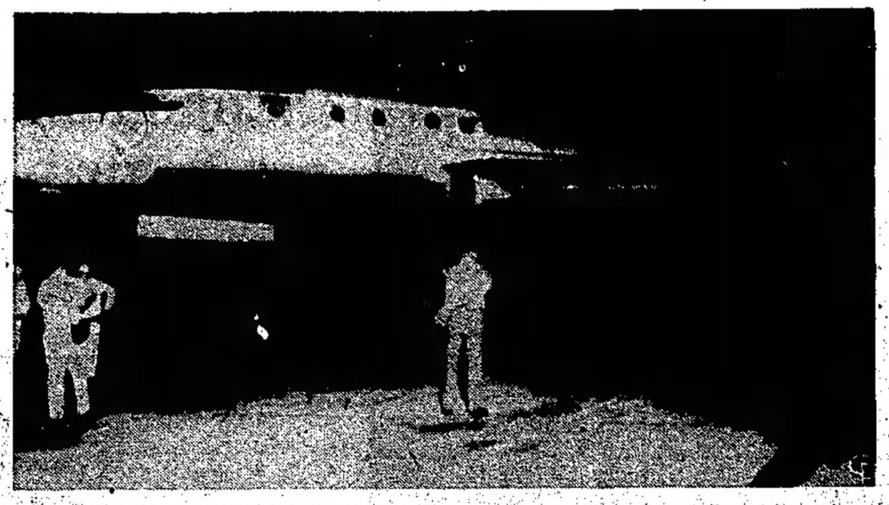
In the process of "weeding out" the other day an envelope which carries the picture of Abe Lincoln was discovered with this additional and noteworthy information:

"Deceased."

County Society to Hold Annual Dinner

The annual dinner meeting of the Westmoreland County Society for Crippled Children and Adults will be held next Monday at the Jacktown Hotel in Irwin.

Miss Dorothy C. Weber, medical social worker for the D. T. Watson Home for Crippled Children, will be the principal speaker. Miss Weber has just returned from a tour of European facilities for the handicapped.



RUSSIAN TWIN-JET AIRLINER LANDS IN U. S. — Carrying 24 cases of vodka and employes of the Russian United Nations delegation, a sleek, twin-jet TU-104 Russian airliner landed at McGuire Air Force base, N. J., after 5,570-mile flight from Moscow. It was the first Russian plane to land on American soil since World War II. Total elapsed time, with refueling stops in London, Iceland and Labrador, was 21 hours, 54 minutes. Flying time was a little more than 13 hours.

VFW Commander Says Tank For War Memorial on Way

Last night was report night at a meeting of the Allison-Descanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

A feature of the meeting was the announcement by Commander John Hurrianko that the M4 medium tank, which will be placed in City Park as a war memorial, has been purchased and is in the process of shipment to Monessen.

A concrete base has been prepared at the Park with additional plans to beautify the area once the tank has been located.

Other reports were given by Richard Pustelak, quartermaster; R. Mitchell Steen Jr., adjutant; Frederic Feldman, athletic officer; Paul Komar, chaplain; Edward Plevel, Boy Scout troop committeeman and Walter Kwolek, senior vice commander.

Feldman announced that the annual banquet for the city marble champions and members of the VFW Little League team will be honored at a banquet to be held at the Post Home on Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Komar reported on a recent visitation to Mercy Hospital to visit a former post commander, Thomas Conti, who was a patient there.

Plevel thanked the post for its participation in the annual corn and wiener roast held by members of Boy Scout Troop 3, which is sponsored by the post. The roast was held Wednesday evening at City Park.

Kwolek reported on participation in the annual Monongahela Valley Veterans' Day observance, which this year will be held in California. Steps are being taken to cooperate with the California American Legion post to help in the sponsorship of the day's activities.

Pustelak reported on the financial results of the annual picnic held last month at Oakdale Park.

Hurrianko announced that steps are being taken to hold a joint ceremony with Thomas McKee Post 28, American Legion, to burn flags now flying over veterans' graves. More details will be announced about this program at a later date.

Komar urged that a more strict ritual program be enacted for welcoming new members.

A donation was approved to the Monessen Civic Library Association.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, Sept. 19.

GOP Politicians And Eisenhower

SOME leaders of the Republican party, in Congress and out, are reported to have reached a conclusion that President Eisenhower has outlived his usefulness as the party's leader and that they will have to take things into their own hands if the GOP is to have a chance in the elections of 1958 and 1960.

This attitude apparently has been developing for some time in Washington. But it became more noticeable in the closing weeks of the congressional session and reached a climax following the defeat of the Republican candidate for the Senate in the special election in Wisconsin.

Most of the ditch-Eisenhower sentiment has been expressed anonymously and off-the-record, which in itself helps to characterize the originators of it. But Congressman Richard Simpson, of Pennsylvania, who is chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, has pretty well expressed the sentiment, although his public statement is couched in milder terms than those which are used in the off-the-record versions.

Rep. Simpson says the Eisenhower administration has been very successful "in certain areas of peace and prosperity", which was the chief Republican issue in the presidential campaign last year. However, he adds this big "but":

"In the area of practical politics, that is, a wise use of the executive branch to assist in building up party strength, it (the Eisenhower administration) has been inept."

IF WE understand Congressman Simpson, what he is saying boils down to a complaint that President Eisenhower has been too much of a national leader and not much of a Republican politician. And we have no trouble at all in agreeing with Mr. Simpson that far.

Where we have to disagree — and violently — is with Mr. Simpson's implication that it is in any way unfortunate, either for the country or for the Republican party, to have the President in this position.

It is hard for us to see how a politician of Mr. Simpson's experience could fail to appreciate the practical political value of what President Eisenhower has done and of the place he has won in the hearts of the American people.

What Mr. Simpson calls "a wise use of the executive branch to assist in building up party strength" is nothing but Trumanism — government by cronies, political favoritism in everything from public contracts to the collection of taxes. And the very reason that the American people turned in such overwhelming numbers to Mr. Eisenhower and the Republican party in 1952 was that they were fed up to the ears with that kind of government and they wanted something better. That Mr. Eisenhower gave them something better must surely be put down on the credit side of the party ledger.

ADMITTEDLY, Ike is no politician in the sense that Congressman Simpson implies. But he is just about the best vote-getter American history has seen, and the politician who doesn't appreciate the practical value of that isn't really very practical.

What American politics needs, in our judgment, is not less Eisenhower but more Eisenhower, which is to say more men in public positions who place the common good above partisan advantage. Instead of ditching Eisenhower, the Republicans would be well advised to follow his leadership more cooperatively. That might not suit some of the Republican politicians, but it would suit the American people very well.

Fall Beauties

IT HAS ALWAYS seemed to us appropriate that the annual Miss America beauty pageant should be staged during the county fair season. For although we have never judged either four-legged or two-legged beauties, we gather that the basic criteria are approximately the same.

The difference, if any, between contests among Hereford cattle and those among female human beings probably lies in the fact that the perfect cow is the result of scientific breeding processes whereas the perfectly formed girl probably got that way without much management. In other words, what you see in the judging pens at the county fair is in considerable part the result of human ingenuity while the exhibits at Atlantic City—well, er. . .

The point is perhaps not worth developing further. But we have to wonder whether the exhibitors of prize Herefords don't make a more worthwhile, if less titillating, contribution to the progress of mankind, than the exhibitors of bathing beauties.

Merry-Go-Round—

Flu Scare Exaggerated, Doctors Say

(Editor's Note: While Drew Pearson is touring the Mediterranean, his column is written by his junior partner.)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — They refuse to be quoted, but some government doctors believe the Asiatic flu scare has been exaggerated to sell commercial vaccine. Six big drug companies are working triple shifts seven days a week to meet the tremendous demand for vaccine.

Meanwhile, the United Nations' medical chief in the Middle East, Dr. Pierre DuPage, has canceled orders for American vaccine on the grounds it won't be needed. He has told associates that Asiatic flu lessens in severity as it spreads, therefore the vaccine will be useless by the time it would arrive.

Dr. DuPage has probably handled more Asiatic flu cases than any single doctor. One day alone he reported 2,000 new cases at a refugee camp at Ba'albek, Lebanon.

American doctors who have been testing the virus at Walter Reed Army Hospital and the National Institutes of Health are divided in their opinions. They agree that the disease has been comparatively mild. It causes a miserable, but non-fatal flash fever that lasts two or three days.

Can Prevent Epidemics

Of 30,000 reported cases in this country, only six have ended in deaths. At least two of these, doctors found, were not caused by the Asiatic flu.

Some government medics agree with Dr. DuPage that the virus is losing its virulence, that the main effect of the new vaccine will be to boost the drug companies' profits.

Other doctors insist there is no way to forecast whether Asiatic flu will gain or lose virulence this winter. They point out the disease is highly contagious and usually hits 15 to 20 per cent of an infected community. The vaccine can prevent such epidemics, they say.

Six companies are licensed to produce the vaccine: Merck, Sharp & Dohme; Lederle Laboratories; Eli Lilly; Pitman-Moore; National Drug Company; and Parke Davis & Co.

The retail price ranges from $6 to $8 a vial, which contains enough vaccine for 10 doses. One dose should give immunity from four to six months. The companies refused to reveal how much of the purchase price is pocketed as profit.

Cole's Capers

Congressman Sterling "Stubby" Cole (R., N. Y.) is taking care not to burn his bridges behind him when he leaves Congress to head the new International Atomic Energy Agency.

He has been nominated by President Eisenhower for the job but still must be approved by the United Nations.

After Cole learned he might be the new world atomic energy czar, he slipped a rider into the law which authorizes American participation. His special sleeper would permit Americans to count their time with IAEA toward federal retirement benefits.

No other international agency offers Americans the same deal. Biggest beneficiary of the Cole rider would be Cole, himself, who has 22 years of congressional service behind him and doesn't want to lose out on any benefits.

Cole also wangled a promise from House GOP leader Joe Martin to restore his seniority rights if he should come back to Congress after his term as IAEA head. This infuriated Congressman James Van Zandt (R., Pa.) who is second in seniority to Cole on the congressional atomic "watchdog" committee. Van Zandt stomped into Martin's office and protested loudly.

Missing Desks

Cole has a reputation on Capitol Hill for nickel nursing. A few weeks ago, he did just about everything except call out the FBI to find two missing $8 desks.

He claimed to have purchased them for his kids from surplus congressional stock. Surplus sales are always carefully recorded, but House Clerk Ralph Roberts could find no record that Cole ever paid his $16.

"Stubby" wrote Roberts several blistering letters, insisting that he had paid the $16 and demanding delivery of the desks. Roberts agreed to take Cole's word about the $16, but couldn't locate the desks.

Finally Roberts offered him two other desks, which Cole grudgingly accepted.

NOTE: "Stubby" has also exercised his congressional privileges to get free work done at the House repair shop. A couple years ago, he ordered House carpenters to recondition an antique organ and antique cabinet for him.

One Night Stand

From Washington—

Some Democrats Ey e Warren

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Have no doubt about it, the leaders of the Democratic Party are even now brooding over the choice of their 1960 presidential nominee. And whom do you think some of them are coming up with — seriously?

Mr. Drummond

You can figure it out with no difficulty if you take the same premises:

That the nominee does not have to be technically a Democrat, that it would be better to have a candidate whose status is above party as Gen. Eisenhower was when he became the Republican nominee in 1952.

That an essential qualification is the capacity to win, which is what gave the supporters of Mr. Eisenhower the advantage over the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

You have already, I am sure, deduced the name whom many northern and western liberal Democrats would like to have at the head of the ticket three years hence — if they could get him. There are few who fill the foregoing prescription and the most visible is, of course, the Chief Justice of the United States, Earl Warren.

Serious Proposal

This is not, I assure you, just a columnist's pipedream on a lean day. I am not originating the idea; I am reporting it. You run into it in numerous quarters in Washington and it has lately been voiced publicly by one of the leading northern Democrats in the House, Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey. Mr. Thompson puts it this way to his colleagues:

"Chief Justice Warren will be a young 69 by the time the next Presidential candidates are chosen. Perhaps he has no desire to run for office again, but I suggest that the Democratic Party give serious thought to nominating him as its next standard-bearer. A Democratic ticket with Warren at its head, coupled with a Meyner (New Jersey Governor) or a Kennedy (Senator from Massachusetts) would symbolize the very best American ideals and, from the practical standpoint, it would be unbeatable.

"Men are often judged by the company they keep and sometimes by who their enemies are. Warren is well qualified by either method. He deserves serious consideration for the nation's highest office at a time when a man of his ability and philosophy are badly needed."

Conflicting Response

And what has been the response? Rep. Thompson's report is that he has received a good deal of mail — much of it unsigned — from extreme critics of the Supreme Court who think it is the worst idea imaginable and a good deal of approval from various Democratic leaders above the Mason-Dixon Line who think it is the best idea yet advanced.

The political advantages hardly need to be expanded. As thrice Governor of California, overwhelmingly elected, Mr. Warren has proved himself a vote-getter who is established as "unpartisan" and who ha always drawn the support of both Democratic and Republican voters. With a large part of the country he has enhanced his prestige during his four years as Chief Justice. He has been out of politics long enough so that the Democratic Party could reasonably embrace him — if he wanted to be embraced. There is no doubt he would have a very good chance of winning.

But are there no drawbacks?

There are. If a Democratic convention nominated the Chief Justice, there would not just be a southern walkout; there would be a southern explosion. A Warren-Kennedy ticket, for example, would not merely lose four Southern states as President Truman did in 1948, it would almost certainly lose at least 11 southern states.

Might Wreck Party

Very possibly a Warren-Kennedy ticket could still win. Republican Presidents have won without carrying a single southern state. But the consequences would be dismemberment of the Democratic Party as it now exists and loss of control of Congress.

Many Democrats would think it better not to win under such circumstances.

What Mr. Warren would think about the whole idea is another matter. He hasn't told me what he thinks but I believe I have a pretty good idea. He would give it a double-riveted No in technicolor. He would have no part in putting the chief justiceship of the Supreme Court into partisan politics under either Democratic or Republican auspices.

Behind The News—

Communist Gains in Asia Plague Neutrals

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Communist Party gains are plaguing East Asia's two big "neutralist" leaders.

Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and President Sukarno of Indonesia are exceedingly friendly to the Soviet Russian and Chinese Communists.

Mr. McCann

But neither wants Communism to flourish in his own country.

The Communists won control of the south India state of Kerala in elections held last February and March.

Now Indonesia's Communists have made startling gains in provincial elections held in Java, which contains about 50 million of that country's 80 million people.

In Kerala, the Communist government has imposed crippling taxes on plantation owners, encouraged riotous strikes and freed thousands of prisoners including murderers.

Report Kerala Conversion

Advices from India report that Kerala is rapidly being converted into a Communist totalitarian state.

So far, Nehru has been able to do nothing about it.

Kerala's chief minister—provincial prime minister—is E. M. S. Nambudripad. A wealthy member of a high-caste family, Nambudripad was for years a member of Nehru's own Congress Party. He went over to the Communists after World War II.

Perhaps encouraged by their success in Kerala, the Communists now have become active in Bihar state in northeastern India.

They have opened a big campaign of disruption in plants of the gigantic iron, steel, automobile and locomotive combine which is controlled by the Tata family of industrialists.

Win Provincial Elections

The Indonesian Communists won their successes in a series of provincial elections held throughout Java.

So far at least, the Communist gains have had no effect on the policy of friendly "co-existence" with the Russian and Chinese Reds which Nehru and Sukarno have pursued.

In Sukarno's case, the Communist gains may even strengthen his personal position because the Reds have enthusiastically supported his attempt to turn Indonesia into a "guided democracy." The many critics of the "guided democracy" program, say it may turn Indonesia into a dictatorship.

Sukarno will be able to say that the Reds, the strongest supporters of his "guided democracy" plan, gained strength in the elections while other parties lost. But it is hardly likely that he will like the emergence of the Communists as a major element in Indonesian politics.

At the White House—

Owls Making Nightly Raids as Ike Leaves

By MERRIMAN SMITH

NEWPORT, R. I. (UP)—Backstairs at the vacation White House:

President and Mrs. Eisenhower got away from Washington just in time. The owls were beginning to close in on the White House.

A few days before the first family flew to Newport, several white owls commenced nightly raids on birds and small animals in the vicinity of the executive mansion.

The owls seemed to be based in the eaves of the old State Department building and emerged only at dusk, usually about 8 o'clock.

Their presence has one good aspect. Favorite target for the owls seems to be the company of black starlings that meets in the late afternoon and early evening in the trees bordering the White House grounds and along convenient perches provided by the many nooks and crannies of the old state buildings.

The city fathers of Newport would be well advised not to push their civic pride so much that they attempt to pin down the President on how he likes New England lobster. He likes it; it doesn't like him.

A couple of years ago in Maine, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith arranged an elaborate lobster and clam supper for the President and his touring party. But Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the White House physician, found out about the menu and forwarded a tactful suggestion that the President would prefer steak. Most shellfish produce undesired reaction in Eisenhower.

The Maine lobster feast that turned into a steak fry for the President came to mind a few days ago when the White House began to receive numerous restaurant menus and letters from Rhode Island culinary experts, forecasting how much the President would enjoy their lobster.

The President's announced intention to fly back to Washington occasionally for important conferences may be due in part to a desire to avoid engulfing his vacation set-up with business visitors.

Even cabinet members have a weakness about showing up at presidential vacation headquarters at times when their business really isn't of world - shaking importance.

As long as it is known that Eisenhower will be back in Washington periodically, at least for several hours each visit, it will cut down on the necessity of members of the government flocking to Newport.

One of Press Secretary Jim Hagerty's most pressing headaches these days is how to arrange press and picture coverage of the October visit of Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain without having mob scenes that might prove wearing on the dainty monarch.

There will be times during the royal visit when coverage will have to be reduced to a virtual pool - reporter basis because the Queen will be on display in areas so small that unlimited numbers of reporters and photographers would be out of the question.

The duration of the president's stay in Rhode Island depends on several factors, the more important seemingly being the weather and how Mrs. Eisenhower likes the place.

The Lighter Side—

Policies for Pooches

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)— Milton M. Weiss, a long, lean native of Manhattan, spent 26 years as a general insurance broker before setting up shop to sell, as the Wall Street Journal said in a headline, "Policies For Pedigreed Pooches."

One month ago, New York state approved his rate schedule for dog life insurance in his newly formed Animal Insurance Co. of America, which he says is the first concern anywhere to devote itself exclusively to leading a dog's life into insurance.

And what has been the reponse? "Staggering," he says. "We have been just swamped. We can't keep up with it. We have had inquiries from Germany, Spain, Brazil, Chile, Argentina, Mexico, and from all over the United States and Mexico."

Only Domestic Trade

His company will not sell to persons in foreign countries. It is licensed to accept business from brokers in New York state, and it will accept mail applications from anywhere in the continental U.S. and Canada and mail out the policies.

This opens quite a field. Weiss estimates there are 10 million insurable pedigreed dogs in the United States alone.

What's he got against non-pedigreed mutts?

"Nothing," says Weiss. "We love 'em. But we can't determine what is their insurable value, while you may love your non-pedigreed dog, you can't establish to us its value. But with stud fees or prize ribbons or pedigrees you can do it.

Must Prove Value

"We will insure from $50 up to $5,000. But over $500 you must establish definite proof of value."

Weiss will insure pedigreed dogs from six months to nine years old. The premium rate is 8 per cent annually. To qualify, the dog must first have distemper and hepatitus inoculations.

He says accidents probably are the No. 1 dog killer (he has no double indemnity provision) and that there is disagreement on what is the top disease killer. His policy covers death by any cause except poisoning.

Weiss plans eventually to expand into cats, wild animals, horses, and cattle. He draws the line at birds, rodents (including mink), and reptiles. He hopes, also, to go into accident and health insurance for dogs and cats —a sort of petty Blue Cross.

'Cane, Lep Coaches to Address Group

Members of the St. Sebastian Holy Name Society in Belle Vernon will get it straight from the horse's mouth (figuratively speaking, naturally) Sunday when Bap Manzini and Wade Bender, head grid mentors at Bellmar and Rostraver respectively present their views of the prospects for the 1957 season at the HNS' monthly Communion Breakfast in the Church dining room . . . . Bap schooled at St. Vincent College where Waynesburg College's head coach Johnny Popovich, of this city, also recieved his college training . . . . Al DeLuca, the head Bearcat football coach, is a Duquesne U. graduate and tht note has a local angle in that DeLuca was a teamate of Greyhound bossman Armand Niccolai.

Bud Roman and Boots Salotti, popular local grid officials, are getting in some pre-season working out each night at the Stadium here in preparation for a busy season of refereeing, umpiring, field judging, or headlinesman duties as the case may be, mostly in the referee department when you're as experienced as that duo. . . .The summer-long drought has pretty much "browned" the turf at Memorial Stadium. It will probably take a soaking rain to give the site a "green look" in time for the start of the home football season on Sept. 27.

Jimmy Baker Winning in Fast Company

Jimmy Baker, local netter, a member of the Pittsburgh Junior DaUvis Cup team, won his singles match in an inter-city match at Philadelphia last week. . . . Sunday he played at Forest Hills (top company) where he defeated his New York foe. . . .Mary Katsuleris, another top city tennis player, will represent Monessen next week in the Allegheny County Senior Tennis Tournament at Frick Park courts . . . .An 18-hole carpet golf course, known as the Capri, has been opened by James (Buddy) Adams, of Webster, near Allens Crossroads. Adams had been working on the layout for the past two years in his spare time. He plans to toughen the course over the winter.

In case you've noticed conflicting dates on the Bellmar and Perryopolis grid cards (Bellmar's shows a Friday, Sept. 13 opener with Perry, while the Commodore slate lists the game for Saturday, Sept. 14) just sit tight for the date conflict is being straightened out and the correct date will be announced in a few days, well in advance of the game. . . .German Township's Buddy Ward will be a starting halfback for Notre Dame this season. Fishing License Increase in Effect

Fishing license prices jumped to $3.25 Sunday, a 75-cent increase. . . .Plans are for the increase to go toward improvement of public fishing facilities. Issuing agents will recieve 15 cents instead of 10 cents for handling each license. . . .Rain was predicted for the Pirate-Giant game Wednesday night but didn't materialize. One fan, however, thought the showers had arrived when a certain Belle Vernon fan allowed (unitentionally) the contents of his beverage to spray the spectator in question. By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Slick little Johnny Dundee and tough Tony Zale seem about ready to take a stroll into boxing's Hall of Fame as the annual election ballots are tabulated today. They may have quite a lot of company.

There are 41 former fistic greats enshrined in the hall to date. Dundee and Zale just missed last year when Tony Canzoneri, Barney Ross, Jimmy McLarnin and Tommy Loughran made the grade.

But the near miss makes this talented pair an almost sure bet as the Ring Magazine counts the ballots of 110 electors, with 75 per cent of the vote necessary for election.

Ten Other Names

Dundee and Zale receive a vote from this corner and, with space on the ballot for 10 names, the other eight getting the nod here are: Marcel Cerdan, Kid Chocolate, Jack Britton, Billy Petrolle, Jimmy Braddock, Lew Tendler, Jersey Joe Walcott and Maxie Rosenbloom.

There shouldn't be much argument with the selection of Dundee, one of the really great featherweights, and the hard-rock Zale, one of the most punishing punchers ever seen among the middleweights.

The most debatable selections probably are Walcott and Rosenbloom.

Old Jersey Joe lost much of his standing when he took a big payday sitdown in his second fight with Marciano. The way he lolled on his derriere while the referee counted him "out" was much akin to taking money under faise pretenses. But I've got to go for Walcott on the basis of two fights which he lost.

Twice as a loser—the first time against Joe Louis and in his initial bout with Rocky Marciano—old Jersey was a Hall of Fame fighting man if I ever saw one. Everybody thought that he had won the decision cleanly from Louis and it still stacks up as the brashest theft since the great train robbery. And old Joe was a warrior of heroic proportions that night he lost the title in Philadelphia until Marciano threw one from left field and caught him on the button.

Nickname Hurts

As for Rosenbloom, his memory is not enhanced by the nickname "Slapsie Maxie," but don't ever forget that in the days when he was fighting them all, and beating most of them, this was a master boxer that even some of the greats couldn't hit with a handful of buckshot.

There can be no argument with most of the others.

Kid Chocolate is a legend and Cerdan was one of the best of our time, a certain all-time great except for that tragic plane crash which cost his life. Petrolle, the "Fargo Express," was one of the immortal crowd - pleasers and, while Tendler never was a champion, he was a classic southpaw whose name belongs on the roll of honor.

There may be those who will orate that Braddock does not belong among the hallowed gladiators of the ring.

The contention here is that he does.

Windber Tabbed as 'Always Tough'

Petro — Hefferle — Michelosen — Timmons

Wiley — Fusia — Cummins

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH'S COACHING STAFF under John Michelosen, head mentoh, is busy whipping tht 1957 Panthers into shape for the rugged opening test with Oklahoma on Sept. 21. Aiding "Mike" are Jack Wiley, line mentor; Vic Fusia, quarterback tutor; Walt Cummins, who handles the other backs along with Michelosen; Steve Petro, the frosh coach; Ernie Hefferle, end mentor; and Bob Timmons, who helps Hefferle with the terminals.

Five Lettermen Returning From Fine 1956 Squad

Monessen High School's first 1957 football opponent is "always tough", claims a report out of Johnstown, where the news releases of the Windber High Ramblers are issued.

Windber is not a member of the WPIAL although the Ramblers have requested admission many times. It is thought that the school's location is a factor since nearby Johnstown and Altoona are also annually omitted from WPIAL plans for such a reason, the distance factor for foes.

Coach John Klawchak of Windber will be starting his 10th year at the head coaching post there. During his stay his teams have posted a 61-24-3 record.

Mark Last Year

Last season Windber won six and lost three and from that team Klawchak has five returning lettermen.

Actually only Don Dona, a junior, who was the first-string quarterback last season but has been shifted to fullback, is the only regular returning, but Bob Zvolenir, guard-end, Mike Hynick, center, Aloysius (Hoko) Tavalsky, an end and Joe Kosturko, a tackle, all seniors, saw enough action last season to earn letters.

The Windber team will be heavy with the line averaging near 200 pounds, more weight than any previous Klawchak - coached elevens. Tom Klena, senior tackle, tips the scales just over the 200 mark, as the heaviest player on the team but all other linemen are near that same mark. In contrast, John Csordas, a guard candidate, goes only 125.

Dona Main Cog

Dona is the lad around whom Klawchak is building his 1957 team. Not only is he considered a top offensive fullback but he is a bearcat on defense and will handle the backer-up duties for the Ramblers.

Ten seniors in all are out for the team this season along with 15 juniors and a like number of sophomores.

Meanwhile, Coach Armand Niccolai of the Greyhounds yesterday turned his attention somewhat to the backfield slots for the 'Hounds after singling out certain linemen the day before yesterday.

Joe Karbowsky and Jim Lewitsky are running well at halfback slots with Andy Carollo giving Carl Rattay a real battle for the fullback post.

After-school drills continue this week as the opener next Saturday night draws closer and closer.

Cadets, Band to Miss Disputed Tulane Contest

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Military Academy apparently will go through with its Nov. 16 football game with Tulane at New Orleans but it has pulled its "baggage train" out of a Pennsylvania congressman's line of fire.

Rep. James G. Fulton asked President Eisenhower Wednesday to have Army cancel the game because of Louisiana's racial segregation laws.

The Army announced Tuesday that the West Point band and Corps of Cadets — the big attraction at all games involving the academy team—would attend the game, if transportation could be arranged.

Thursday an Army spokesman said:

"It has now been decided, due to the fact that transportation arrangements cannot be worked out, neither the U.S. Military Academy band nor the Corps of Cadets will go to the game."

There are no Negroes on Col. Earl Blaik's Army team but there are Negroes in the Corps of Cadets.

Fulton asked the President to "institute a general order" barring all U.S. military service teams from participating in segregated sports competition.

Law Idled by Gomez Pitch

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Pirate Pitcher Vernon Law, hit by a wild pitch last Tuesday, probably will be out of action for a week.

Dr. Joseph Finegold, team physician, said today X rays revealed Law did not suffer a skull fracture as feared from a ball thrown by New York Giant pitcher Ruben Gomez. Finegold said, however, Law's middle ear drum was punctured.

Finegold, who will not hospitalize Law, said the decision to keep him out of action for a week is a precautionary measure.

Cree Sees Brighter Days for Wildcats

(This is another in a series of round-up articles on Valley grid teams. More will follow prior to the opening games on September 13 and 14. Monessen will be covered in daily stories here.)

Coach Al Cree of Monongahela High School looks for brighter things for his Wildcat gridders this season after last year's injury-riddled squad, which staggered to a 2-7 mark.

First of all, one of the largest squads of Cree's tenure at Monongahela, which began in 1954, turned out for drills this season when 55 candidates reported for drills. All have remained out so the entire trimming process will have to come from Cree and his aides with no voluntary cuts on the part of the players.

Eight Lettermen Back

Included among the 55 candidates are eight 1956 lettermen in end "Dink" Diaz, tackles Larry Pritchard, Mike McCurdy and Dave Saunders, center Jim Voelker, and backs Jim Penrod, Jim Roberston and Tracey Robertson, brother backfield hopefuls.

All is not so rosy as it sounds concerning the return of lettermen as Diaz missed a week and a half of drills playing baseball for the junior legion state runnersup, Mike McCurdy and Larry Pritchard are hobbled by injuries in early drills. In addition Bill Barkey a promising end quit the squad, Mike Bove, a backfield hopeful, joined the army, and John Stuyvesant, showing promise as a halfback, decided not to play football this season.

Biggest hole for Cree to fill will be the fullback slot vacated by All-Big Six Fred Cox, now Pittbound. Others missed will be linemen Jonathon Sweeney, John Hillman, Boyd Skaine, Eddie Crosby, and Don Anderson and backs Rich Sacane (quarterback), Chuck Hillman, All-Big Six second team, Cox and Bove.

Finding guards, will also be a problem with no letterwinners back at that slot. Trying out are Dave Saunders, 200-pounder, who has been shifted from a tackle post and Kenny Miller and Ralph Affinito, a sophomore, in addition to Larry Matus, 140, who saw some action last season.

Cree has two new assistant coaches working with him this year in John Katusa, a former pupil of Cree at Carmichaels High, who later starred at Mississippi State, and Fred Fleming, former Charleroi standout. Returning assistants are Elmo Natali and Roy Leffard. Fleming will probably assist Leffard with the junior high squad.

Running down the line for a thumbnail sketch of the candidates, Cree sees his task at each position as follows:

ENDS: Juniors Jim Sweeney, Frank Columbus. Senior John Timko and sophomores Frank Spernak and Paul Loines. Columbus has been moved from a quarterback post while Dinker Diaz, an end last season, who goes near 190 pounds, has been shifted to fullback.

TACKLES: Larry Putnak, near-200 pound junior sophomore Lewis Cedar, also a 200-pounder. seniors Metro Petrosky and Clayton Newman.

GUARDS: Saunders, Miller, Affinto and Matus as mentioned previously.

CENTERS: Jim Voelker, rough and ready 180-pounder now in his senior year would get the nod here with opposition from Larry Pritchard, a junior, Terry Law a sophomore and Bill Hyatt, 200-pounder from Fallowfield Township. Hyatt was injured on the first day of practice last season as a sophomore and never returned to action due to a broken ankle.

QUARTERBACK: The all important quarterback post will be in the hands of either those of Junior Jim Roberts or sophomore Bob Johnson or Red Gregor. All are untried in competition and will have to prove themselves.

FULLBACK: Milton Diaz, 200-pounder, also mentioned previously and Charles Eisiminger a junior are the hopefuls here.

Rostraver, Bellmar Grid Openers Set

Rostraver and Bellmar High Schools both announced definite opening night football dates this morning following a slight mixup as to whether the openers would be Friday, September 13 or Saturday Sept. 14.

James Weir, Rostraver Athletic director, announced this morning that the Leopards' lidlifter with Ellsworth has been set for Saturday the 14th but Raymond Barker, Bellmar principal and athletic director stated the Perry-Bellmar clash at Perryopolis would be Friday, September 13.

(The Bellmar schedule had listed it as the 14th, Perry's card had it for the 13 date).

Weir also announced a change in the Penn Joint final away game for Rostraver from Nov. 9 to Nov. 8, or from Saturday to Friday.

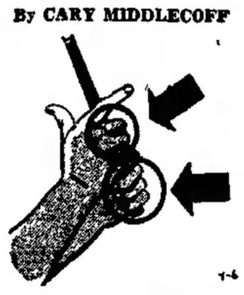
DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF



Faulty Grip

A faulty grip, may lead to just about all faults in golf. As I've said before, NOTHING is more important to hitting a golf ball right than having a correct grip—which means having the hands properly placed on the club and applying the right amount of pressure.

I've already taken up the proper placement of the hands, but I've said little about the amount of pressure that should be applied. Let's settle that right now. As to the overall pressure to be applied in both hands, the best description that comes to me is the old phrase "gently but firmly"—with perhaps a little extra emphasis on "firmly."

Here's an important point about grip pressure. The greatest pressure in the grip should be applied in the last three fingers of the left hand, and with the ring finger and the middle finger in the right hand. Applying the greater amount of pressure at these points activates the proper muscles for holding on to the club and applying just the maximum hit you need.

Maglie to Get First Yank Nod For Mound Duty

NEW YORK (UP) — A 40-year-old "rookie" named Sal Maglie gets the call tonight to give the New York Yankees' hard-pressed pitching staff a rest that manager Casey Stengel says is "badly needed."

"I don't know yet how much help Sal can give us," said Stengel after announcing that Maglie, purchased last Sunday from the Brooklyn Dodgers for $30,000 and two minor-league players, will be given his first chance as a Yankee starting pitcher tonight against the Senators in Washington.

"But I do know this—this fellow knows how to pitch," Stengel pointed out. "And my staff needs a little rest. Bob Turley has been pitchin' the best for me lately, and my relief man, Bob Grim, is great when he has a little rest once in a while. But even Grim needs some rest now."

A bargain two - for - one admission price will prevail.

Magic Numbers Now At 15, 16 in Races

By UNITED PRESS

For the mathematical - minded, the "magic number" dropped to 16 for the New York Yankees today and remained at 15 for the Milwaukee Braves.

If the Yankees win 16 of their remaining 19 games, they will clinch the American League pennant even if the White Sox win all their remaining games.

And the Braves can clinch the National League flag by winning 15 of their remaining 21 games even if the Cardinals win all the rest of their games.

Pirates Now Out Of Last Place Slot

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates moved out of last place Thursday night with a 4-2 decision over the New York Giants behind the 10-hit pitching of Whammy Douglas.

The Pittsburgh win and a Chicago Cub loss to Cincinnati, gave the Bucs a slim three point hold on seventh place going into tonight's game with Philadelphia here.

In Thursday's contest, the Giants threatened in the ninth inning when Willie Mays connected for his first hit in the last 10 times at bat, Mays stole second, and with two away, Whitey Lockman walked. Roy Face relieved Douglas and on three pitches retired Valmy Thomas on a fly to Roberto Clemente.

Douglas, in chalking up his third major league win, struck out eight.

Pittsburgh piled up eight hits off five hurlers. Starter Al Worthington was charged with his 10th defeat against eight victories.

The Giants were held scoreless until the eighth when they tallied two runs.

Pitching for Pittsburgh tonight will be Ron Kline (6-15) against Harvey Haddix (10-10).

Heated Battles Seen as NBA Convention Opens

DETROIT (UP) —A couple of heated battles are expected at the three-day National Boxing Assn. convention which gets underway in Denver Monday, including the possible expulsion of states which prohibit mixed" fights.

Floyd Stevens, Michigan state boxing commissioner and president of the NBA, acknowledged that a move is afoot to oust states which ban bouts beween Negroes and whites from the association.

The action would be directed primarily at Louisiana, although several other Southern states, or cities within the states, don't permit "mixed" bouts.

More fireworks are expected when the estimated 250 boxing commissioners and commision members from the United States, Canada, Central and South America discuss what relationship the NBA will have with the World Championship Committee.

Saxton - Miceli On TV Tonight

WASHINGTON (UP) — Ex-welterweight champion Johnny Saxton, starting a comeback, is favored at 11-5 to beat left - uppercutter Joe Miceli tonight for the third time at the new Capitol Arena.

Their 10 - rounder will be televised and broadcast nationally.

It's Saxton's first start since Feb. 22, when his attempt to recapture the 147 - pound crown resulted in a second-round knockout by champion Carmen Basilio at Cleveland.

New Yorker Johnny appeared "washed up" in February. He was staggered four times in the first round and dropped for the full count by a left hook in the second.

'Parker Men' Report For Steeler Training

OLEAN, N.Y. (UP)—Fullback Dick Young, traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers by the Baltimore Colts, reported to camp today along with two other veteran backs recruited by Coach Buddy Parker.

Fullback Bill Bowman was purchased from the San Francisco 49ers and halfback Ted Weigert from the Philadelphia Eagles. Young was exchanged for an undisclosed 1958 draft choice and Bowman and Weigert were obtained on waivers in Thursday's trading action.

Bowman, who played for William and Mary was a pro sensation under Parker in 1954 at Detroit, the last year the Lions won the Western Conference. In 1955, Bowman was in the service and returned last year for second string duty behind Leon Hart with Detroit. He was traded to San Francisco after the season had ended.

Young has been used by Baltimore as the No. 2 halfback behind Alan Amechie. He played college ball at Chattanooga.

Wegert, a three year National Football League veteran, never played college ball. He is 5-feet, 11-inches, weighs 210.

According to league rules, three players must be dropped from the Steeler roster today to make room for the newcomers.

Seixas - Flam in Battle for U. S. Tourney Berth

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UP) — Veterans Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., clash on the center court today to determine which will be the lone American survivor against three foreign threats in the semi-finals of the U.S. tennis championships.

Top - seeded Ashley Cooper of Australia and third-seeded Sven Davidson blasted in Thursday and the fourth semifinal goes up for grabs in an all-foreign showdown today between Mal Anderson of Australia and scrambling Luis Ayala of Chile.

Seixas, lone Yank against three Aussies in last year's semis, was favored to make it again against the lighter hitting Flam. No American player in recent years has a better record than Vic in the nationals with one championship in 1954 and second place twice.

Anderson, an honest - to - Pete Australian cowboy who learned his tennis on his dad's cattle ranch outside of Brisbane, was favored to oust Ayala off his tremendous form in routing Dick Savitt of South Orange, N.J., on Wednesday.

Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson of New York bids for a semifinal berth against Mary Hawton of Australia and Wimbledon runner-up Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., was favored to move in, too, against Shirley Bloomer of England.

Cooper and Davidson each knocked off an American bent on an upset in Thursday's quarterfinals. Cooper blasted playboy Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Paris, 6-3, 6-3, 6-1, and Davidson overcame his usual slow start to whip Clifton Mayne of Berkeley, Calif., an Army lieutenant at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4.

Cardinals Top Braves 10-1 But Milwaukee's Happy—Vets Back

By MILTON RICHMAN

The St. Louis Cardinals climbed within 6½ games of Milwaukee today but the Braves seemed perfectly content to let them have their day in the sun now that Joe Adcock and Johnny Logan are back in action again, apparently ready for the final pennant drive.

Brushing off Thursday night's 10-1 defeat at the hands of the still-hopeful Cardinals, the Braves preferred to dwell instead on the fact that Adcock and Logan will be available for duty during a comforting 12-game home stand which begins against the last place Cubs tonight.

Adcock, the big first baseman who suffered a broken ankle on June 23, made his first appearance for the Braves since thep Thursday night as a pinch hitter and although he grounded out, he indicated to manager Fred Haney he is ready to play.

Logan Plays Short

Logan sidelined since Aug. 16th with a leg injury, filled in at shortstop in the late innings and also signified he can take his usual place in the regular lineup.

Those two encouraging signs took a lot of the sting out of the four-hitter Sam (Toothpick) Jones threw at the Braves Thursday night. Hobie Landrith and Alvin Dark each drove in three runs for the Cards while Del Ennis clouted his 19th homer with one on. Lew Burdette was the loser.

Brooklyn defeated the Phillies, 3-1, the Pirates licked the Giants, 4-2, and Cincinnati beat the Cubs, 4-1.

The Yankees increased their American League lead to 5½ games with a 5-2 victory over the Red Sox while the Senators shut out the Orioles, 3-0, in the only other game scheduled.

Roberts Drops 19th

Rube Walker put the Dodgers ahead to stay with a two-run double in the second inning off Robin Roberts, who dropped his 19th game. Carl Erskine, the winner, limited the Phils to one hit until the eighth when he tired and gave way to Ed Roebuck, who nailed down the victory.

Rookie Whammy Douglas of the Pirates posted his third victory although Roy Face was summoned from the bullpen to register the final out. Al Worthington started for the Giants, yielded Pittsburgh's first two runs and was charged with the loss.

Brooks Lawrence of the Redlegs held the Cubs to seven hits in gaining his 14th win. Don Hoak doubled for two runs off rookie Dick Drott in the second inning and Frank Robinson connected for his 24th homer in the third with the bases empty.

Grim Bells Homer

Relief pitcher Bob Grim of the Yankees won his own game when he hit a three-run homer in the ninth inning off Willard Nixon of the Red Sox. It was the first hit of the season for Grim and the second homer of his big league career.

Jackie Jensen gave Boston a 2-0 lead with a two - run homer off starter Bob Turley in the fourth and Nixon held that margin until the eighth when Gil McDougald tied the score with a bases-loaded single. The victory was Grim's 12th of the year.

Southpaw Chuck Stobbs held Baltimore to three hits and Roy Sievers blasted his 35th homer with one on to pace Washington to victory. Sievers' homer put him one ahead of Mickey Mantle of the Yankees in that department.

New Scoring Marks In Millwright Loop

Victories in the Blooming Mill Millwrights Bowling League last night were recorded for the Geiselharts, 3-0 over the Bethems, Breenimans 2-1 over the Aiellos and McVickers 2-1 over the Furios.

Charles Miller posted a new three-game high total of 567 while Bob M. McKeever showed a 218 for a new single game record, showing a 531 mark for three games. Other top scorers were Rudy Cherdi with a 109-b94, Bud Frantz with a 203, 476 Andy Drahobecky with a 188-479, Joe Altomari with a 208-475, Ray Echart with a 179-477; Emil DeMarco, 192 476; Steve Swansick 176, 471; Leon Delzanble 179-459.

Guard Against Flu

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Health officials have clamped precautionary controls on tourists, pilgrims and Vatican guards and workers to prevent the spreading of Asian flu in the papal state. Groups of tourists and pilgrims, known to have come from areas where the disease has been prevalent, are being denied entrance to the Vatican.

Zoning Will Protect Residential Areas

(This is the second in a series of six articles on a proposed new zoning ordinance being prepared for submission to Monessen City Council.)

Protecting residential areas from the intrusion of business establishments is one of the prime objects of the new zoning ordinance which City Council soon will be asked to enact in Monessen.

In the early history of Monessen it was possible to build a single family residence, an apartment building, a commercial establishment or an industrial building anywhere as long as the builder owned the property and as long as his operation did not constitute a nuisance.

As the population of Monessen and its suburbs has increased and as business and industry have flourished and expanded, it has become more and more important to confine these separate activities to their own zones.

Limited Land

The comprehensive plan now being prepared by the Planning Commission recognizes that Monessen has a limited amount of undeveloped land. Most residential expansion and population growth to come to this area in the near future will be outside the present City limits. The residential zones defined in the proposed ordinance have been drawn with this likelihood in mind, and it is the intention of the Planning Commission to coordinate zoning of the City with that in adjoining Rostraver Township.

The areas for living within the City would be divided into four districts: three residential districts and one conservancy district.

The most restricted residential district would be designated R-1, where only one-family residences would be permitted. The minimum lot area would be 6,000 square feet and the minimum width of lot 50 feet for an inside lot and 65 feet for a corner lot. The front yard depth would be 25 feet.

The R-1 district makes up the core of three principal neighborhoods within the City limits, and these neighborhoods are of themselves major planning units in the general City survey under development.

Prevent Crowding

The establishment of these single-family districts would mean that in the future no new apartment or two-family dwellings would be built in these areas, and existing homes could not be divided into two or more apartments. The purpose of these regulations is to maintain the present good character of these single-family areas and prevent future overcrowding.

Most of the residential land not included in the single-family districts would be classified R-2, two-family area. In these districts two-family dwellings, but not apartments, would be permitted. The minimum lot area per family would remain at 6,000 square feet for one family dwelling within this district and 3,000 square feet for each family of a two-family dwelling. The minimum lot width and yard requirements would be the same as in the R-1 district.

Much of the area proposed to be zoned R-2 is located near the downtown business district in the eastern and western sections of the City.

The R-3 district would be established for all types of residential development. It would be located in areas considered suitable for apartment development. One-family dwellings within the R-3 district would still be required to maintain a minimum lot size of 6,000 square feet. Multiple dwellings could be built with a ratio of 2,000 square feet per family, provided however that the minimum lot size would be 6,000 square feet.

A specialized type of district defined in the ordinance is the S or conservancy district, which would include the steep slope areas of Monessen.

In the past it was necessary for families to live close to the place of employment of the head of the family. For this reason dwellings were built on every available space, including steep slopes which, by today's standards, cannot accommodate adequate dwellings and yards.

As a result of the development of the automobile and modern street systems these residential areas on steep slopes are now obsolete. Some are still being well maintained, but many are not, and in the future few, if any adequate homes will be established in these areas.

An objective of the comprehensive plan will be to discourage future development of such steep slope areas, and where possible to return this land to public use and ownership. As the population of Monessen increases these slope areas will be valued highly as "green belt" areas or buffer strips between commercial and residential zones and along busy thoroughfares.

(Tomorrow: Zoning for business in Monessen).

New Pill to Soothe Ulcer

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UP) —"Happy Pills" until now never cured ulcers but it did soothe the people who had them.

Now the manufacturers of Miltown, the most famous tranquillizer of them all, have come up with a pill which soothes the ulcer itself.

Wallace Laboratories, of New Brunswick, announced Wednesday that it has developed a compound which uses "split - level" therapy in the treatment of gastro-intestinal disorders.

The new compound, called Milpath, contains Miltown which figuratively pats the patient on the head, and another drug which works directly on the digestive tract to control damaging hypersecretion.

Doris Duke May Buy McKeesport Garbage Firm

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Doris Duke, millionaire heiress whose operations include a pig farm in New Jersey, may be going into the garbage-to-fertilizer business in nearby McKeesport.

Stockholders of the Organic Corp. of America, a firm which makes fertilizer from garbage, will meet here Nov. 2 to consider an offer from the tobacco heiress which points toward a purchase of the company for nearly $1,500,000.

ORCOA's first plant, in McKeesport, was closed down recently when it was unable to meet its payroll but is scheduled to resume production next week. The plant disposes of McKeesport's garbage collection and the organic fertilizer is manufactured through a soil culture process.

Included in Miss Duke's offer is an option to buy $500,000 in ORCOA loan debentures, plus a second option to pick up the remaining $850,000 worth of debentures. Miss Duke would loan the firm $50,000 immediately.

Steelworkers Has $22 Million Worth

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The United Steelworkers has a net worth of $22,364,856, an increase of more than one million dollars in a six-month period, the union's semi-annual audit disclosed Wednesday.

A report by Main & Co., certified public accountants, covered the period July 1, 1956, to Dec. 31, 1956, and reflected an increase of $1,005,354 over the previous period.

Libel Trial Final Arguments

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Prosecutor William Ritzi was expected to launch into his sermon-type final argument today in an attempt to convince a jury that Confidential Magazine victimized the entertainment industry by spreading nasty falsehoods about its top stars.

Ritzi, a Sunday school teacher, revealed as the Confidential criminal libel trial resumed today that he was prepared to devote at least two days to his final arguments. The defense also indicated it would spend about the same amount of time presenting its final summation.

The trial was in recess Thursday because of a crowded court calendar. Judge Herbert V. Walker ordered the final arguments to open today although both the prosecution and defense in resting their cases Wednesday reserved the right to call more rebuttal witnesses.

Second Week of Basic Training More Rugged, New Soldier Finds

(This is the second in a series of letters written by Alfred P. Klimcke, a Monessen youth who recently started a six-months training program under the Reserve Forces Act. He is relating some of the experiences which recruits undergo.)

By ALFRED P. KLIMCKE

FORT KNOX, Ky. — (Special to The Daily Independent) — Our second week at Fort Knox, the first of actual basic training, brought with it a more rugged, but also a more consistent pattern of activity than the first week.

We begin our days with physical training, a program of exercises which calls for much twisting bending and groaning, in unison.

Shortly after this we began an overland march of three miles to an open area at which several noncommissioned officers greeted us gruffly. Thus, our actual basic training had begun.

Then began a series of lectures and demonstrations in field exercises and the process of getting acquainted with our rifles, which by the end of the week we were to know rather intimately.

Our first afternoon was spent in a series of 50-minute lectures, at which we were instructed on interior guard, general orders, adjustment to military life and the mission and responsibility of an American soldier.

Mission Defended

Our mission: To defend our country. Our responsibility: To learn to do it well.

Following our evening meal, we were given "off time", but in that time we had to practice the manual of arms, clean and polish boots, clean and oil our rifles and clean the barracks.

As it turned out our "free time" coincided rather surprisingly with "lights out" at 9:30.

Tuesday followed much the same pattern. Wakeup is at 5:20; physical training at 5:30; revelle at 6; breakfast at 6:10. Cleanup and police detail occupies us until 7:15, at which time we begin our day's schedule.

We attended classes in military intelligence, military justice, character guidance, handling of prisoners of war and first aid. In addition, we received two more immunization shots, both administered at the same time, one in each arm.

Thursday found us beginning a long and arduous block of study on the MI rifle which will continue throughout the next two weeks.

Our first class at 7:30 was two hours on dismantling and reassembling the weapon. The hours from 9:30 to noon concentrated on the functioning of the weapon. Following lunch was an hour of rifle drill.

Thursday evening was spent in getting haircuts (rather thorough and speedy), the usual cleaning and polishing and sewing on of name tags and patches to clothing.

Friday began our first series of study of what is called preliminary rifle instruction, designed to prepare us for actual firing on the target range.

The morning was spent in beginning to put into practice some of the theory on the rifle we had received in the previous few days. We twisted our bodies into positions we had never before imagined. We peered through peep sights until targets were simply blurs. We rolled and writhed about in hot dust. But, we never fired a shot. It was all just preparation.

"Operation Hotpoint" was declared that afternoon, when the temperature recorded 109 degrees. At that time all active training ceased until after the sun had set.

First Inspection

Friday evening proved to be our most active. We were to prepare for an inspection on Saturday morning. The barracks were dusted, scrubbed, waxed and polished. Lockers, boots, brass and rifles were given special care. The session lasted from 7:30 until midnight.

We arose at 4:30 a. m. Saturday to give the final touches. But, the much dreaded inspection never materialized. We had been hoaxed!

Sunday afternoon was spent in visiting with several Monessen boys who are stationed here. Richard Joyce and Donald Jones, two of my old high school friends, stopped by.

Both are beginning their final week of basic training and will move out to Fort Belvoir, Va. tomorrow. Michael Tweardy and Joseph Tucci, two more Monessen boys, will also make the trip. They will attend the Army supply school.

Two other Monessen boys, Mithine and Erminio Ciocco will move out tomorrow for Ft. Polk, La., to attend advanced infantry school.

Everyone was looking forward to the Labor Day week end, some for visits from friends from home. But daily, everyone looks forward to "mail call", which is without a doubt the highlight of every soldier's day, and I am no different.

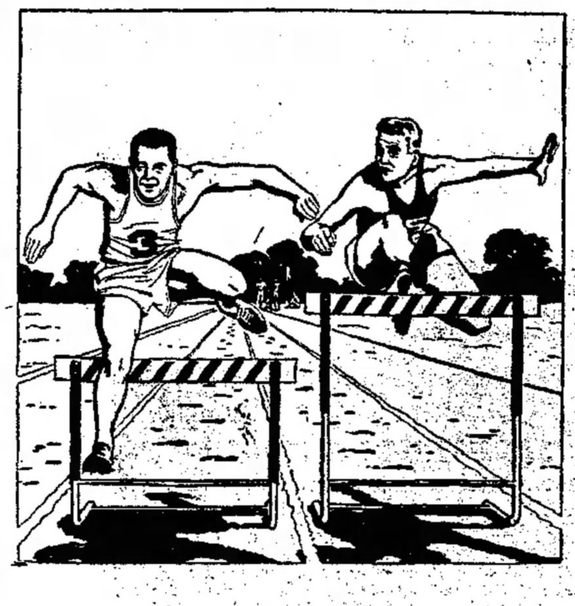
Leisenring Coke Operation to Close

PITTSBURGH (UP)—U.S. Steel Corp's. beehive coke operation at Leisenring No. 2 mine will be closed indefinitely because of increased coke production at the Clairton Works, it was announced Wednesday.

A modern, rebuilt coke unit went into production last week at Clairton and two additional batteries are scheduled for operation by the end of 1957, James C. Grey, vice president of U. S. Steel's coal division, announced.

Approximately 75 men will be affected by the shutdown of the mine operation which dates back to 1881.

In ancient Rome, unmarried women were forbidden to wear pearls, but men commonly wore them in "ear bells."



Would you call this fair play?

Number 5 has to take the high hurdles—number 3 gets by with the low. Would you call this a fair race?

Hardly—but you and most people face that same kind of unfairness every day as far as your taxes are concerned. Here's how:

Part of every dollar you pay for electricity goes for taxes. But a strange twist in federal laws exempts several million American families and businesses from paying all the taxes in their electric bills that you pay in yours. These are the people who get their electricity from federal government electric systems. Like runner number 3, they enjoy lower tax hurdles while you strain over the high ones.

This kind of tax favoritism is a far cry from American standards of fair play. That's why we believe it should be made widely known and given critical study.

Catholic Daughters Plan Activities at First Session

Court Miriam 1315, Catholic Daughters of America, met in the Holy Family Church Hall Tuesday evening for the first meeting of the new season, with the new officers in charge.

The Court completed plans for a spaghetti supper which will be held in the church hall on Sept. 19 from 4:30 until 8 p.m. Since there will only be 150 tickets available, admittance will be restricted to those who have purchased tickets in advance. No tickets will be sold at the door.

At the October meeting there will be a new election for the three officers who have resigned. Mrs. Marie Leighty, district deputy, will attend this meeting.

A new feature was introduced this month, called, The Birthday Table". Five members were honored with a home made birthday cake and each received a hankie. The September committee was in charge of this part of the evening's festivities.

Mrs. Olympia Libbos headed this committee, with Mrs. Dorcas Genemore as her co-chairman. Aides were: Mrs. Evelyn Werner, Mrs. Aurelia Burkhart, Mrs. Ann Kowalcheck, Mrs. Geraldine Genemore, Anne Blazek, Mrs. Anne Ritzo and Mrs. Josephine Musenti.

The October committee, which is planning a Halloween party, consists of Mrs. Helen Lynch, chairman, Mrs. Margaret Selepchak, co-chairman, and Mrs. Pauline Kopanic, Mrs. Mary Terpak, and Mrs. Joan Turk.

Good Bed Is Needed For Rest

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Does your bed sag? Is the mattress lumpy? Is the pillow too hard?

Any or all of these faults might mean a regular and continuing seige of sleepness nights.

Too often, I'm afraid, you're apt to blame inability to sleep on mental stress or some obscure disease when the real trouble is simply poor sleeping conditions.

The most important thing for a good night's rest is a good bed that has a well-constructed mattress. Check yours. It should be long enough for you to lie in when stretched to your full length. The springs should permit your body to remain generally in a straight line.

Coil springs probably are best since the individual springs can give way most beneath the shoulders and hips. Next best is the link spring. This is made of jointed wire links which are fastened to strong springs at the foot and the head of the bed.

Beds with fabric or woven wire springs tend to sag in a hammock-like effect.

Your mattress should be moderately soft. It should not be lumpy or have hollow spots. If it is stuffed with horsehair, it should be renovated every few years.

Those of you with spine or sacroiliac ailments might need a firmer mattress and spring arrangement. It's up to your own doctor, of course, to decide what is best for you in such cases.

In inner-spring mattresses, the spring coils form open cells. This gives these mattresses some ventilation which is fine during the summer, but might be a bit chilly during the winter. Placing a blanket between the mattress and the lower sheet will keep you warmer.

Blankets should be warm, yet light in weight. Best type probably are blankets of wool of a loose, fluffy texture. Not only is this type fairly light, it also retains body heat. Electric blankets generally are okay.

Fluff your pillow before going to bed. It should not be too thick, though, since it's best for your head to remain in a straight line with your spine when you lie on your side.

While it might not be practical at this time to change mattresses and bedsprings just because I say so, keep these suggestions in mind the next time you're in the market for these items. And for better sleep it would be well for all of us to have our mattresses checked at regular intervals.

You might be surprised how comfortable you can be.

Question and Answer

G. R.: Is it necessary to be immunized against diphtheria?

Answer: Definitely, yes. One of the reasons why diphtheria is not as prevalent as it was formerly is the fact people are now being immunized against it, thus preventing the spread of the disease

Robert Ryan Solves The School Problem

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The "school problem" is in the nation's news again during this back-to-school season. But one movie star, Robert Ryan, has solved the dilemma once and for all.

He runs his own elementary school

"My wife (Jessica) and I were concerned about overcrowded public schools," Ryan explains. "And we were sincerely determined that our youngsters would get the kind of education we wanted them to have.

"So we did the obvious thing. We began a school of our own."

That was seven years ago, and Ryan's Oakwood School has blossomed into a burgeoning plant for bright youngsters between the ages of five and twelve.

A Big Problem

"We didn't know what we were getting into, or what a bloody battle it would be," the rugged actor grinned. "Whenever amateurs tackle a professional problem it always leads to trouble.

"But we stuck to it, and after about a year we got a license from the city of Los Angeles. Our biggest problem was getting a staff together."

The school, located in the San Fernando Valley, now has a faculty of nine, three buildings worth $160,000, and three acres of campus. There are 75 pupils and a long waiting list.

"It's an extremely non-profit organization," Ryan laughed. "The tuition is $700 a year, but we lose money on it."

To Ryan, who joins the "Four-Star Theater" series on NBC this month, the project is worth the extra work, financial loss and responsibility.

Own Kids Enrolled

"Our three kids—Timothy, 11; Cheyney, 9, and Lisa, 6—are being educated under the best possible circumstances by the best possible teachers according to our lights.

"They are learning ingenuity and initiative, too."

Neither a "three 'R'" nor a "progressive" adherent, Ryan says his Oakwood School teaches classic subject as well as practical ones.

"Our school stresses arts and crafts right along with traditional subjects. And everything is integrated. It takes both to turn out youngsters who can compete in the world."

World of Television—

Jill Corey To Sing Top Song

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—The channel swim...

Mike Wallace takes off for Europe Sept. 23 to film interviews for his ABC-TV show. His first target, he hopes—Charlie Chaplin. If Mike fails to get back in time for his Sept. 29 show, ABC-TV will run a filmed Wallace talk with Frank Lloyd Wright that took place after Wallace's TV interview with the architect last Sunday.

Jill Corey gets to sing the No. 1 tune, "Tammy," on the "Your Hit Parade" opener Saturday night. Sherree North got the nod as Ernie Kovacs' co-star in the "Playhouse 90" show, "Topaze," on Sept. 26. The CBS-TV drama is wooing Katharine Cornell right now for a new Tad Mosel vehicle, "The Playroom," set for Oct. 10.

NBC-TV's new "Club Oasis," which will alternate with the new Polly Bergen show on Saturday nights, will feature one-shots by such marksmen as Jimmy Durante, Frank Sinatra, Van Johnson and Kay Starr. Lawyer Joseph Welch is whipping up a series on the law for NBC-TV's "Omnibus."

Another Boone

Nick Boone, younger brother of Pat Boone, has signed a contract with Dot Records. They're changing his name to Nick Todd.

Birthday dep't: This past Wednesday marked the sixth anniversary of the first coast - to-coast TV show—it was a telecast from San Francisco of the Japanese Peace Treaty conference with Harry Truman taking honors as the first man ever to appear on ocean-to-ocean video.

Jack Linkletter, 20, son of Art Linkletter, has set Dec. 21 as the date for his marriage to a Southern Cal co-ed Bobbi Hughes. Jack is studying TV writing at the university.

Three Real "Guys"

NBC-TV is clipping "Zoo Parade" from its regular schedule—it'll be programmed irregularly or just given the gate. Eddie Fisher will feature Debbie Reynolds and Mike Todd on his Oct. 1 NBC-TV opening show.

ABC-TV has gone "Guy" crazy this season with Guy Mitchell, Guy Madison of "Wild Bill Hickok" and Guy Williams of "Zorro." Marion Sweet, who played the "Dragon Lady" on radio for six years, will play a prim librarian in an upcoming Broadway show, "The Egghead."

Don Fedderson, producer of CBS-TV's "The Millionaire," has used his wife, Tido, on all 108 shows in the series thus far. She has played such roles as a scrubwoman, nurse, nun, waitress and sales girl without speaking a line. Tido gets $19.43 for each walk-on.

'First Day of School' on TV

Impressions of teachers, parents, students, and others concerned with education on the advent of the first day of school will be presented during a specially-arranged one-hour program tonight at 8 p.m., over Channel 13.

The program, entitled "First Day of School," will feature a cast of 31 persons; and John Gibbs, program manager of KQV Radio, will serve as the moderator. Gibbs will interview parents from Glenshaw, Oakmont, North Side, and Churchill Valley; and among them will be Mr. and Mrs. George Swetnam (Western Pennsylvania historical authority); Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Fox (he is head of the Physics Department at Carnegie Tech); Mrs. Sylvester Pamplin (who will head the Manchester School PTA in the fall); and Mrs. C. Howard Jones (who will be president of the Churchill School PTA this school term). The parents' group also will include an English war-bride.

Teachers from the city and the suburbs, from the elementary and high schools, experienced teachers, new teachers — even a "television" teacher — will be interviewed by Gibbs during the program. The teachers will represent such schools as Wightman, A. Lee Weil, Central Catholic High School, McKelvey, and Churchill School (Wilkins Township).

Also on hand to give comments will be a high school senior from Sacred Heart, and a junior high student from Shaler Township; an elementary administrator from the Wilkins Township School District (Dr. James I. Mason); a custodian from Crescent School; a bus driver from the Baldwin Township Schools; and a school guard. Scenes are set in a first grade activity corner, a principal's office, a street, a park, and a teacher's lounge.
